Open Educational Resources

Open Educational Resources increase access to knowledge and educational opportunities worldwide through sharing educational content.

UNESCO believes that universal access to high quality education is key to the building of peace, sustainable social and economic development, and intercultural dialogue. Open Educational Resources (OER) provide a strategic opportunity to improve the quality of education as well as facilitate policy dialogue, knowledge sharing and capacity building.

Open Educational Resources

OER Logo © UNESCO

Open Educational Resources are teaching, learning or research materials that are in the public domain or released with an intellectual property license that allows for free use, adaptation, and distribution.

In 2001, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), in an unprecedented move, announced the release of nearly all its courses on the internet for free access. As the number of institutions offering free or open courseware increased, UNESCO organized the 1st Global OER Forum in 2002 where the term Open

Open Education Europa

openeducationeuropa.eu

The screenshot shows the homepage of the Open Education Europa website. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the website's name and the European Commission logo. Below this is a search bar and a 'SIGN UP' button. The main content area is divided into three sections: 'Find' (with sub-links for Courses, MOOCs, Resources, and Institutions), 'Share' (with sub-links for Members, Blogs, Events, and Groups), and 'In-depth' (with sub-links for eL Papers, EU Projects, News, and Articles). A search bar is located below these sections. The main banner features the headline 'Can free online courses help foster web skills?' with a woman using a laptop and various icons representing technology and education. A call to action 'Take 5 minutes to make a real impact' and a 'Give your opinion' button are also present.
